SCHLEY'S PART IN THE FIGHT.

The Most Graphic Description Yet Given to the Public.

The recent battle between the American and Spanish warships in Cuban waters was written by the only non-combatant who witnessed the entire fire. He was the correspondent of the Associated Press and saw the engagement from a position almost at the elbow of Commodore Schley, on the armored cruiser Brooklyn. The report is as follows:

Sunday, July 3, the fifth Sunday for the American squadron before Santiago and the ninth weekly anniversary of the day of the Dewey victory at Cavite, and the fifth of the discovery by Commodore Schley of the whereabouts of Admiral Cervera's squadron, brought no particularly different situation from that marking the preceding Sundays. The monotony, the lack of picturesqueness at daybreak, the heat of the tropical sun—all were there.

The vessels on the blockade were the Iowa, Indiana and Oregon, battle-ships; the flagship of Commodore Schley, the Brooklyn, and the small yachts Gloucester and Vixen. The Iowa was swinging a mile further out than the rest of the squadron, trying to fix her forward 12-inch turret, which was out of repair, while the Indiana was doing the same thing to her forward 13-inch turret. The absolutely available ships in the squadron, therefore, were only the Oregon, Texas and Brooklyn, although later both Captain Evans and Captain Taylor fought their ships.

It is a custom on ships regulated by the rules that there shall be a general muster at least each three months and that the articles of war shall be read. First call had been sounded at 9:15 a. m., and the men were assembling on the decks.

The lookout in the masthead of the Brooklyn had some time before reported smoke in the harbor, but, as the same thing had been noticed several times, no special attention was paid to it. The Brooklyn and the Vixen were the only ships to the west of the entrance, the other ships having drifted well to the east. On the bridge Navigator Hodgson, of the Brooklyn, said sharply to the lookout:

"Isn't that smoke moving?" and the lookout, after a minutes inspection with the long glass, dropped it excitedly and fairly yelled:

"There's a big ship coming out of the harbor, sir!"

Hodgson, who is a particularly cool man, looked once himself and then, grasping the megaphone, shouted:

"After bridge, there! Tell the commodore the enemy's fleet is coming out."

Commodore Schley was sitting under the awning on the quarter deck. Going to the bridge, he said: "Raise the signal to the fleet," and turning to Captain Cook, who stood near, he said: "Clear ship for action." Then he went forward and took his place on a little platform of wood running on the outside of the conning tower, which had been built for him. He was dressed in blue trousers, a black alpaca jacket and the regulation cap, without the broad band of gold braid.

The men with a yell went to their guns and the rapid preliminary orders were given. Schley, glasses in hand, watched the first ship turn out and saw her start for the west. Still he gave no order to fire or move. The Oregon opened with her 13-inch shells, and the Indiana and Texas followed suit. But the range was a long one.

Still the Brooklyn waited. But down below the coal was being forced into the furnace, every boiler was being worked and every gun made ready to fire. Schley wanted to know which way they were all going, or whether they would scatter. In the meantime the Oregon began to turn to the west and the Texas moved in closer and was damaging the leading ship, the Infanta Maria Teresa.

"They are all coming west, sir," shouted Lieutenant Sears, and just then the western batteries opened up. "Full speed ahead; open fire," shouted the Commodore. "Fire deliberately and don't waste a shot," he added; and the orderlies carried the word to the turrets. In an instant the Brooklyn's terrific eight and five inch batteries on her port side opened and the cruiser headed for a point in front of the first escaping ships, firing at and receiving the fire from two of them.

Then Commodore Schley saw that the first ship was coming out from the shore headed directly for the Brooklyn, with the evident intention of ramming her. A clever manoeuvre was here accomplished.

"Hard aport, with your helm," shouted Schley, and the cruiser began to go around.

Quickly she turned and quickly her big steel ram was pointing at the first ship. The Infanta Maria Teresa had

REEKING WITH YELLOW FEVER.

Shafter's Intentions—German Government Pleads Ignorance as to the Actions of the Irene.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, July 14—Santiago de Cuba is reeking with yellow fever. This fact has been known to General Shafter for some time, and he has announced that as soon as the city falls he will surround it with troops and only send in a sufficient number to preserve order. This will be kept up until the fall when the fever disappears. No Cubans will be allowed to enter the city lest the looting process, as at El Cane, be repeated.

PINAR DEL RIO AFIRE.

Madrid, July 14—An official despatch from Havana says the steamer San Domingo has arrived at Varo Punta from Mexico laden with provisions; also saying that Pinar del Rio has been set afire from bombardment by warships. The San Domingo is supposed to be the vessel reported wrecked by the American officials at Key West yesterday.

CERVERA LEAVES PORTSMOUTH.

Portsmouth, N. H., July 14—The St. Louis sailed this morning for Annapolis having on board Admiral Cervera and other Spanish officers who were captured off Santiago.

NEWS FROM GEN. MERRITT.

Victoria, July 14—The steamer War-rimbo has arrived and reports that General Merritt arrived at Honolulu on the fifth of July.

UNAUTHORIZED ACTION.

Berlin, July 14—It is officially stated this morning that nothing is known by the government of French interference in the Philippines. Her action was entirely unauthorized.

RESIST TO THE DEATH.

Madrid, July 14—The government has issued the statement that it has cabled to General Blanco instructions to General Toral to resist to the death and to make no surrender.

ATTEMPTED STORE BREAKING.

Thieves Try to Force the Windows At The Original Racket.

On reaching his place of business this morning Mr. Clary, of the Original Racket store found that thieves had been at work trying to force his back windows. They had used two pieces of scantling, one of them 2x4 the other 4x4 and had succeeded in raising the sash of one window about twelve inches and in bending the iron cross bars considerably, but they failed to make an aperture large enough to admit the body of a man.

With the aid of a single tree, which they detached from a wagon in the rear lot they had dragged a box of shoes near enough to the window to reach two pairs, which they carried away.

This was an exceedingly bold and fearless thief. The man or men must have labored an hour or two from the way they had scryed the window in using their pry pole. This case affords more detective work for the police force.

DEATH OF MR. W. D. TROTTER.

A Good Citizen of Greensboro Passed Away Last Night.

The citizens of Greensboro are pained to learn of the death of Mr. W. D. Trotter, which occurred at his home on Ashe street last night. Mr. Trotter has been ill for a long time and his death was not unexpected. He was about 75 years of age.

Mr. Trotter was a highly esteemed and valued citizen, and a consistent member of the M. P. church. He was superior court clerk for two terms—8 years—a good many years ago, and for a long time he has been public administrator of the county. He was a good and true man, is the universal verdict of those who knew him best.

The funeral services were conducted this afternoon at four o'clock and the remains interred in quiet Greene Hill. Life's voyage ended, he has entered the placid harbor and rests "under the shade of the trees." Our sincere sympathy goes out to the bereft family.

Death at East Bend.

Died at her home in East Bend, July 13, Mrs. Belle Helmond, wife of A. Helmond. She was the eldest daughter of Martin B. Armfield, late of Greensboro. She was 70 years of age, greatly beloved and a devout Christian woman.

JUMPED THE TRAIN.

And "Hoofed it" Back to the Quilt of Greensboro.

Will Logan, who left here yesterday with his volunteer band to join the colored regiment at Fort Macon, is still in hard luck. Before leaving here he was kept busy recruiting his forces, filling the places of the deserters. Finally, he was enabled to get away at noon yesterday with fourteen men; but now he is in bad luck again. Dan Carter jumped from the train at Gibsonville, fifteen miles from Greensboro, and in two hours and a half was back in the city. This leaves Logan with thirteen men—an unlucky number.

Carter was asked why he deserted so soon. He said he didn't think much about where he was going until after the train started, but "after she got to runnin' I got to thinkin' an' de fus' time she stop I lit off an' when I struck de groun' I struck it in de direction o' Greensboro. Didn't look back but once, an' den I saw nothin', I jus' flew."

A Gem of the Art.

The new catalogue of the Brockmann School of Music, just issued, is a gem of the printers' art. Besides its pages are filled with information which is of importance to all who propose studying music in any of its branches. The Brockmanns are a musical family, and in addition to their natural talent they have had the advantage of early as well as conservatory training. We heartily commend this school. Get a copy of the catalogue and inform yourself as to the excellent and practical results to be obtained in this school. Also, if you contemplate buying an instrument, no matter what kind, consult Mr. Brockmann, who is an expert by reason of long application to the study of such things.

For Garrison Duty.

Yesterday's order to Colonel Bur-gwyn to cut up the Second North Carolina Regiment of volunteers is a keen disappointment to the officers and men, who were specially anxious to keep the regiment intact. Six companies are to be detailed at once for garrison duty along the South Atlantic coast. Company D, our Greensboro boys, are to be sent to Port Royal, S. C.

He Took His Departure.

He poured his words of love into her ear. "Idle nothings," she sneered. "That doesn't seem to work, for a fact," he replied, with naivete. Pausing in the front hall only to exchange the compliments of the season and overhauls with somebody, he left her forever.

SANTIAGO HAS SURRENDERED

Accepting the Terms Offered by the United States.

TROOPS TO BE SENT TO SPAIN.

Garcia's Forces and Five Thousand Regulars Will be in Charge—Shafter to be Military Governor.

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

At the Front, via Playa del Este, July 14—The armistice continues until today at noon when the surrender of the Spaniards or a general assault of the city is expected.

General Miles has been in conference with General Shafter. The American land batteries are in position and the guns are trained upon the Spanish trenches.

The fleet is prepared for the assault—the ships are lying off Aquadoces awaiting a signal to begin firing.

Burning houses in Siboney continue. The troops which arrived on the Yale have not yet landed. The wreckers are at work on the Cristobal Colon and think she will be able to go to the United States under her own head of steam.

TORAL ASKS FOR COMMISSION.

Washington, July 14—Shortly after eleven o'clock today Secretary Gage received a despatch from General Shafter saying that General Toral asks for the appointment of a commission to consider terms of surrender. It is said the dispatch indicates that Santiago is on the point of being delivered over to the Americans. The message was immediately taken to the president by General Corbin. It is known positively that the message contained information to the effect that Santiago is on the point of unconditional surrender.

M'KINLEY FLATLY REFUSES.

Washington, July 14—Officials here do not think for a moment that Gen. Toral's request for the appointment of a commission to make terms of surrender will be listened to. It is evidently only another attempt to delay the proceedings.

The president has refused General Toral's proposition and has instructed General Miles to tell the Spanish general that unless surrender is made by noon the attack will commence.

IS IT FIGHT OR SURRENDER?

Washington, July 14—But two despatches have been received from the front between midnight and 11 o'clock today. Both of these referred solely to commissary stores. It is expected that word will soon be received here in regard to whether General Toral decides to fight or to accept our terms and surrender.

The general opinion is that he will fight in order to save his fighting reputation in Spain; but all hope that he will surrender.

Our lines have most thoroughly invested Santiago and further resistance on the part of the Spanish army will be leading a forlorn hope. It is believed here that when Santiago falls Spain must sue for peace.

Officials say our army can now take the city in two hours by a grand assault. It is estimated that Admiral Sampson's ships alone can throw over two hundred shells into the city within a couple of hours.

Secretary Alger said this morning that we shall hear that General Toral either surrenders or that a united attack by our land and sea forces began promptly at noon upon the expiration of the truce. That in the event of a refusal to surrender on the part of the Spaniards, is the only course left open for the American commanders to pursue.

LATER—TORAL SURRENDERED.

Washington, July 14—General Toral with the whole Spanish force surrendered at noon today, accepting the terms offered by the United States to send the troops back to Spain. There will be no more fighting at Santiago, nor indeed in Cuba before fall. The surrender of Santiago is said to mean that Spain will sue for peace making the best terms she can. Possibly the campaign against Porto Rico will now go on. Spanish troops will now be sent back to Spain at our expense. Our army will be withdrawn from Santiago as quickly as possible.

Garcia's forces, aided by 5,000 regulars will be left in charge. General Shafter will be military governor of eastern Cuba.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

Stockholders and Directors of North Carolina Railroad.

The annual meeting of the stockholders and directors of the North Carolina Railroad company was held in the courthouse here today. General R. F. Hoke was called to the chair. The old officers were all re-elected. Only routine work was done in the stockholders' meeting and after adjournment the board of directors met and elected Dr. R. M. Norment, president; W. J. Sutton, treasurer, and H. B. Worth, secretary. The president made a splendid report which was unanimously accepted by the stockholders, showing the company to be in excellent financial condition.

D. W. C. Benbow called the attention of the board to a resolution of the stockholders passed in 1889 authorizing a monument to be erected to the memory of the late Calvin Graves, the real author, or rather, the founder of the North Carolina railroad, and the board requested Dr. Benbow to prepare plans and specifications to be submitted to the board at a future meeting, it being practically agreed by the board that they will appropriate the money to erect the monument on the spot where ground was first broken in building the railroad, which is near the present Southern depot.

General R. F. Hoke, Judge A. C. Avery and J. A. Smith were appointed a committee to look after the character of the securities deposited by the Southern railway as collateral on the 99 year lease. The utmost harmony prevailing throughout.

FITTING REBUKE.

Since the battle of warships off Santiago a great deal has been said as to whom belongs the praise for the brilliant American victory. Some newspapers of saffron hue, have been most persistent in proclaiming that to Commodore Schley belongs the glory of that achievement. Apropos of what has been said we take the following from the Philadelphia Record:

"Yellow journalism has met with another fitting rebuke in its dastardly attempt to stir up jealousies among the officers of the navy. Instead of accepting its coarse flatteries at the expense of his superior and his comrade, Commodore Schley, like the brave and manly sailor that he is, gives Admiral Sampson full credit for the naval victory before Santiago. Senator Chandler justly says it is 'wicked' to encourage jealousy among the officers of the navy. Such efforts can do no good, and are calculated to do much harm to the military service, in which harmony and unity of action are of the utmost importance. There is little danger that ample justice will not be done to the heroes of the war by a discerning and grateful country; but it is not a time for the lavish distribution of praise and blame when the means of just discrimination are not at hand."

Truly, the end of the war must be near at hand. The report comes to us that Captain General Blanco, at the head of the Spanish army, on hearing of the destruction of Admiral Cervera's fleets, attempted to commit suicide. It would have been in better taste to have surrendered. But if the brave captain-general really wants to die—really has a burning, yearning and consuming desire to follow the fleets of Montojo and Cervera he is at present on the right road. No necessity for taking his own life. The music is on in dead earnest and if he keeps his seat in the band wagon the end will come.

Captain Moss, of the captured British sloop Wary, said he thought when the St. Louis was firing away at her with 6-pounders that it was all being done in sport. The bright captain, we must confess, has an entirely new and original idea of what constitutes fun.

A flag of truce still floats over the executive office in Raleigh; but so far as the public information goes His Excellency, the commander-in-chief, is still guarded in the inner office by a double-barrel shot gun and a rapid fire piece in a convenient drawer.

Germany's attitude is causing a great deal of comment on the part of the press of the country, but it is thought her objection is not based so much on our occupancy of the Philippines as to turning the islands over to the insurgents.

Yellow fever seems to be taking a hand at Santiago. The Raleigh Post fears it will do for our men what the Spanish soldiers cannot.

to work ashore to avoid being rammed. The shells of the Texas and Oregon, with the terrible storm of shell from the Brooklyn, had done their work, and the smoke began to appear pouring from her decks.
At 10 o'clock the entire Cape Verde squadron was outside the harbor and going rapidly westward. The Iowa and the Indiana could not keep up the pace, but the Oregon was coming across to the assistance of the Brooklyn, which at 10:05 was engaging the three first ships, the Infanta Maria Teresa, the Cristobal Colon and the Vizcaya. At 10:11 the Spanish ships had all concentrated their shots on the Brooklyn and she was in a perfect rain of shells, most of which went over her.

Standing in this hail of shells, Commodore Schley asked a young man named Ellis, who stood near him with a stadiometer, "What is the distance to the Vizcaya? The man took the observation. "Twenty-two hundred yards, sir," he said, and there was a whistle, followed by a splash, and his head was literally torn from his shoulders by an eight inch shell.
"Too bad," said Commodore Schley as the body fell at his feet; and then, with his glasses to his eye, he added: "The first ship is done for; she is running ashore."

The Maria Teresa was running her nose on the beach, and in an instant was a mass of flames.

The Brooklyn was ordered to concentrate her fire on the Almirante Oquendo and, with the Oregon's assistance, in ten minutes more the Oquendo was sent ashore a burning wreck, but a short distance from Santiago.

At 10:49 the Brooklyn turned her attention to the Vizcaya, the Cristobal Colon having passed the latter and now being in the lead well up the coast. At the time the only vessels in sight from the Brooklyn were the Oregon, about a mile and half astern, and the Texas about three miles astern.

At 10:54 the Vizcaya was raked fore and aft, clean along her gun deck by an eight inch shell from the Brooklyn.

Another one minute after exploded in her superstructure with terrific force, killing 80 people. She was afire, and at 10:55 she headed for the beach at Aguadores, where she went ashore. The Brooklyn did not stop, but went on after the Cristobal Colon, the Oregon closing rapidly up and following her.

The other vessels at this time were from 6 to 8 miles behind and Admiral Sampson's flagship, the New York, was not in sight.

At 11:15 the Brooklyn, slightly injured by the hail of Spanish shells, stopped firing and the chase began. The men came up on deck and began to cheer, never heeding the whistles of the Spanish shells. They cheered for Schley and Clark and for the Oregon and the Oregon's men returned the cheer. Up to the masthead of the Oregon went a pennant: "Remember the Maine," read the signal officer. "Tell them we have," said Schley, and then there was a roar as the answer went up.

The chase was in full force at 11:55, the men out on the decks watching with great interest and as happy as larks. The Colon, at a distance of 5 miles, hugged the shore, but Commodore Schley ordered the Oregon to follow her, and then, with the Brooklyn, he made a straight course for Cape Cruz, around which she would have to steer on a long detour to get away. All these ships were pumping along at great speed.

In an hour the Brooklyn had gained appreciably and so had the Oregon, and Captain Clark, of the latter ship, signalled over:

"A strange ship, looking like an Italian, in the distance."

He alluded to the fact that the Cristobal Colon was bought from Italy. Commodore Schley, sitting on the edge of the forward 8-inch turret, swinging his legs and happy, said: "Tell the Oregon she can try one of those thirteen-inch railroad trains on her."

There was a terrible roar as the big shell went by the Brooklyn, a moment of suspense and watching, and then a hearty cheer as the big thing struck the water close astern of the Colon, four miles away. Another was tried which reached the mark, and there were more cheers. Then the Brooklyn opened her forward and starboard eight-inch guns and one shell was seen to go through the Colon at the top of her armored belt.

At 1:05 p. m. both the Brooklyn and the Oregon were pounding away at the Colon, and in another ten minutes, after returning the fire in a desultory sort of way and rapidly losing ground, she turned toward shore. At 1:15 she hauled down her flag. With yells of delight the men poured out of the turrets of the two ships, and when a boom went up at the mainmast of the Brooklyn they began to cheer and did not stop for ten minutes.

At this time the only ships in sight were the Vixen, about five miles away and the Texas, about seven miles away. The New York was not in sight. As the big ships moved in on the quarry, the smoke of the New York could be seen coming over the horizon from the east, and she was fully twelve miles away.

A boat was lowered from the Brooklyn and Capt. Cook went aboard to receive the surrender. The Rear Admiral in charge said, with tears in his eyes: "I surrender unconditionally to Commodore Schley. We were badly hurt and could not get away." While Captain Cook's boat was coming alongside, the Spanish captives shouted: "Bravo, Americano," and the crew responded: "Bravo, Spaniardio (sic.)"

While Captain Cook was returning to the Brooklyn, the New York, with Admiral Sampson, came along, ran in between the Brooklyn and the prize, and ordered Captain Cook to send the prisoners on board the New York.

Commodore Schley, seeing this, megaphoned over: "I request the honor of receiving the surrender of the officers of the Cristobal Colon." No answer was vouchsafed him from the New York, and the ship that had not fired a shot took the honor. Commodore Schley then raised the pennant, "A glorious victory has been won; details later."

The answer from the New York was: "Report your casualties."

The Brooklyn was hit twenty-six times, but only one man, G. H. Ellis, was killed, and only one man, J. H. Burns, fireman, wounded.

The Colon went ashore at the place where the Virginus expedition tried to land and was captured years ago.

The chase had lasted four hours, and the Brooklyn, Oregon, Texas and Gloucester had saved the United States fleet the stain of allowing the Spanish vessels to escape—the Oregon and Brooklyn by their splendid chase and great gunnery, the Texas by her determined work on the first two ships and the Gloucester by her marvelous attack on the destroyers.

The Almirante Oquendo at 10:30 o'clock in the evening turned over on her side and is now being beaten to pieces by the waves. Her crew scuttled her before hauling down her flag. The paymaster divided up the money on board and all the Spanish sailors were well supplied.

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of Mr. W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrated me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I fortified myself against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by C. E. Holton.

The True Remedy.

W. M. Reppine, editor-Trikiwa, Ill., "Chief," says: "We won't keep house without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, coughs and colds. Experimented with many others, but never got the true remedy until we used Dr. King's New Discovery. No other remedy can take its place in our home as in it we have a certain and sure cure for coughs, colds, whooping cough, etc." It is idle to experiment with other remedies, even if they are urged on you as just as good as Dr. King's New Discovery. They are not as good, because this remedy has a record of cures and besides is guaranteed. It never fails to satisfy. Trial bottles free at C. E. Holton's drug store.

What is Worse Than Eczema?

Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy.
NOT TO BE ABLE TO GET

Last fall I was a severe sufferer from eczema, which effected my face, hands and feet—it was a dry eczema, which would form scales and rough hands, and dry places, which could be cut off as if it were a corn. It was very annoying, especially on my feet. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing eradicated it from my system until at the earnest solicitation of friends, I tried Mrs. Joe Person's Remedy. I got one-half dozen bottles last spring; am now taking it and am almost entirely cured of the trouble; think it will only be necessary to use a few more bottles before I will be entirely well. The trouble effected my general health and I was fearfully run down, but since taking the Remedy am now perfectly well in health.

FEAST FOR HUNGRY SPANIARDS.

Uncle Sam Treats His Prisoners With Hospitality.
Portsmouth, N. H., July 12.—A thousand loaves of bread, 600 pounds of roast beef, 50 gallons of coffee and a large quantity of potatoes and onions furnished the first square meal that the Spanish naval prisoners, now held at this point, had partaken of in many a day. Uncle Sam served such a supper to them last evening, and the prisoners ate with a relish.

After supper each man was given a mattress and a pair of blankets. These they sorely needed in this climate, so much cooler than that of Cuba, for many of the prisoners were utterly without raiment.

The Spanish captives made themselves at home today, and most of them spent the day in playing cards or other favorite games.

The government tug which visited the cruiser at noon reports Admiral Cervera as feeling much improved.

Blood Brains Money
A sick man can't make money. That's because his brain won't work. A horse won't do work unless he is properly fed. Neither will a brain. If the brain is not kept in good condition with pure, rich blood, it won't produce much.

Men who fail, and men who don't, often have what they call "Nervous Prostration." Nine times in ten the nervous trouble is purely secondary. The real sickness is in their digestion and in their blood. If a man keeps his digestion in good order, and keeps his body full of pure, rich blood, he is never going to be very sick.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla is made for people who want to get well and stay well. Sarsaparilla is a simple, "grandmother" remedy, but it cures. It purifies and enriches the blood and sends it tingling to every part of the body. That is the way it cures all ailments of the brain and nerves—cures insomnia—cures dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and every other blood disease. It clears the complexion, plumps out the cheeks, and brings back the sparkle to lifeless eyes.

One Dollar is the price, and One thousand Dollars is the health-giving value of every Quart.

BLANCO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

The News Brought By Namesake of the Captain General.
Key West, July 13.—According to advices from Havana received here today Governor General Blanco attempted to commit suicide when he learned beyond doubt that Admiral Cervera's squadron had been annihilated. Long before the Spanish admiral's gallant dash out of Santiago harbor all Havana had been boasting of his ability to outwit the Americans and when misleading dispatches gave the impression that he had eluded the American fleet the demonstrations of joy in the Cuban capital partook of the nature of a festival.

When the true story of the defeat came it was discredited until definite confirmation from Madrid no longer left room for hope. Gloom settled upon the city, all gaieties were stopped and every public and many private buildings were hung with crepe and other black drapery. Blanco was in his palace when intelligence reached him and he became almost frenzied. He was closeted with his staff and General Arolas, of the Spanish forces, discussing the news when he made the attempt on his life. After a struggle he was subdued and disarmed but the shock was so severe that he was prostrated and compelled to keep to his bed for several days. When he arose his first order was to prohibit any food supplies leaving Havana for interior towns, where the distress is greatest and where many are starving daily.

This and other valuable information was brought by Jose Pauline Blanco, who indignantly repudiated a suggestion of kinship with the governor general. He says he is a loyal Cuban and escaped to avoid the necessity of fighting against his cause, as every man in the island who is able to bear arms is being pressed into the Spanish service. He obtained a fisherman's permit to go outside the Morro and at 6 o'clock Monday morning was put off in a small boat. The United States gunboat Bancroft was stationed six miles out and he rowed to her, the Cojimar batteries east of Havana firing two shots at him when he was observed passing beyond the prescribed limits. The Bancroft transferred him to another vessel and he was brought here, where the local junta will care for him. The sailors of two American ships made up a liberal money subscription for him and gave him some new clothing.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says Mr. W. B. Cooper of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective." For sale by C. E. Holton.

IT WAS HOBSON'S BEST.
How He Exploded the Court That Tried Him.
There was a Mr. Duran in Charlotte yesterday, who was at school with Lieutenant Hobson at Greensboro, Ala. He was telling an incident of Hobson's school-boy days. When Hobson was 17 years old he was in a military school at Greensboro. There was a female school near by. The boys had been having debates and invited the girls over. As is generally the case, the boys around the college campus got to yelling "angels" at the girls, throwing kisses and tossing flowers and notes. One night after a debate a certain girl to whom Hobson had been paying undivided attention on previous visits, was caught and kissed on her way home. She screamed, strange to say, and Hobson was court-martialed. The evidence seemed against the young man but he brought the court down and freed himself by asking to put his arms around her and kiss her again to see if he was the same man.—Charlotte Observer.

They Are After Them.
The North Carolina railway commission yesterday took action on complaints against the Southern Express Company and Western Union Telegraph Company for exacting and collecting from shippers and senders of messages a higher rate than that fixed or approved by the commission by forcing the payment by shippers and senders for revenue tax stamps. The express company and telegraph company are cited to appear July 20th and show cause, if any, why the penalties for overcharges should not be enforced and also ordered to furnish to the commission sworn statements of the number of messages or shipments upon which such overcharges have been made between July 1st and July 29th. The penalty as to the telegraph company is not less than $50.—News and Observer.

Something to Depend On.
Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with a gripple, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into hasty consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at C. E. Holton's drug store.

A YANKEE SWORD.

Found in the Woods Thirteen Years After the War.

We were shown this morning what was once a very handsome sword. It is now in the possession of Mr. Robt. Elliot, of this city. It was found on his father's place four miles from Greensboro, thirteen years after the surrender. Mr. Elliot and his brother were in the woods raking litter when his brother's rake struck something with a metallic sound. Investigation revealed a sword encased in its scabbard buried beneath a mass of rotten leaves and trash.

During or about the close of the war, Mr. Elliot says a part of Johnston's army was encamped in his father's woods near the exact spot where the sword was found. How it came about that a Yankee sword, for such it is, was found in a rebel camp, is not known, unless in some skirmish or battle some of the men had captured it. The scabbard bears the following inscription: "Presented to Captain White by Union Cadets." The sword has been placed in Hendrix's museum at his store on South Elm street.
